NEW MILITARY WORK.

Just Published and for Sale,

At the Bookstores of R. Gray, and Cottom and Stewart.—

PRICE 4 DOLLARS 50 CENTS.—

Rules and Regulations for the Field Exercise and Manœuvres of the French Infantry, issued August 1st, 1791; and the Manœuvres added, which have been since adopted by the emperor Napoleon. Also, the Manœuvres of the Field Artillery, with Infantry. By Col. Irence Amelot de Lacroix, late Chief of Brigade in the French service. In three volumes, the third volume consisting of plates.

The principal part of this work has been translated from French to English, by Lieut. Col. Macdonald, in the service of his Britannick majesty. Col. de Lacroix has not only availed himself of Macdonald's translation, but has retained the principal theories, with which Col M. has enriched his work, especially his comparison of the French tactics with the Prussian, and the principles of the different nations with the English; because those valuable notes are sufficient for such comparisons, and are in point. Col. De L has augmented those notes.

The introduction of Col. de Lacroix' works will direct the attention of the young Americans to the study of learned tactics, the result of experience, and enable them to obtain the precision desirable in the war ior, for they must be convinced that a good officer forms a good soldier, and that the experience of ages has demonstrated, that the soldier will perform his duty correctly, when he is well commanded.

At the end of the second volume of this work, Col. De Lacroix has added the manœuvres of the field artillery with the infantry, according to the French principles. It is not necessary to lavish praises on the advantage of moving this thundering arm with the same facility and celerity as the line. Europe is now convinced and confesses it. He has added Plates, which demonstrate those manœuvres so essential to the great operations of war, and which will enable officers to execute them.

Col. de Lacroix has judged it also expedient to add to this book some new adopted manœuvres, which have been put in practice to great advantage in the face of an enemy. To enhance the value of this work is the only motive could induce him to augment its size.

ABSCONDED from my farm at the mouth of Seneca, about the 7th of last month, a man whose name is RALPH, 21 years of age, between a black and yellow color, nearly 6 feet high, very stout made, yellowish eyes looking heavy—he has but little to say. His apparel was osnaburg shirts, a negro cotton overjacket and trowsers. It is likely he has made away with them and procured other cloathing. A free negro man by name Sambo, living on Judge Washington's estate, Mount Vernon, is his father, and it is very probable he is thereabout or in Alexandria, and with little trouble may be found.

The above reward will be given to secure him in Washington City or Alexandria jail.

Massachusetts Legislature.

Answer of the Senate to the Governor's Speech.

May it please your Excellency—

On the first meeting of the several branches of the government, the senate respectfully recognize, in the person of the chief magistrate of Massachusetts, the man who so eminently contributed, by his revolutionary services, to establish the independence and secure the peace and prosperity of our country. The zeal and fidelity with which these services were rendered, afforded to us a pledge, that in discharging the duties of the high and honorable trust, commited to you by a majority of the people, your excellency will not be influenced by the sinister suggestions of party spirit, but will be guided by a sincere and single regard to the great interests of the whole commonwealth.

This confidence is strengthened by the reflection, that during the conflict which for many years has agitated almost every portion of our community, your excellency has been aloof from the scene of contention, and we trust, therefore, has advanced to the chair of government, unbiased by those passions and prejudices, which are in some degree common to all who have been actively engaged in the warfare of political opinion.

Experience, in every age and country, has too fatally evinced the truth of the position, that the measures, and not the professions of rulers, furnish the standard, by which to determine their claim to the gratitude of the people. While, therefore, the senate proffers to your excellency a liberal degree of confidence and receive with unfeigned pleasure, your assurances of impartiality in the administration of our public affairs, they look forward with still greater pleasure, to the period when a strict and undeviating adherence to these professions, shall have ensured to you the rich reward of an "upright and honorable" mind, "the happiness of conscious rectitude," and the universal "approbation and esteem" of your fellow citizens.

In the measures pursued by your immediate predecessor, we have witnessed a scrupulous regard to the principles avowed at the commencement of his administration, and in this respect, we confidently hope your excellency will not be surpassed by any who have gone before you in the executive department.

With the most sincere and perfect cordiality, we reciprocate your excellency's expressions of solicitude for the preservation of that spirit of union, which is the "vital principle of liberty"—and which is as essential to the security of our political institutions, as is the power of attraction to the harmony of the planetary system. An indissoluble union among the states, who are parties to the great national compact, we consider as not less indispensable to our peace and prosperity, than an unity of sentiment and action among the people, to the defence of the liberties secured to them by the constitution. The man who shall insidiously plot a subversion of this compact, or shall secretly infuse into the public mind, a spirit of discord and disunion, whatever may be his pretensions to patriotism, is attempting to demolish the fabric of our public prosperity, and merits the detestation and abhorrence of his country.

However alarming may have been the indications of irreconcilable division among the people of the U.S. yet we are not without hope that the nearer approach of impending danger would find them united with a single heart, to repel every foreign encroachment on their liberty and independence. However portentous may have been the progress of this disorder our reliance upon the intelligence and patriotism of our fellow citizens affords to us a rational belief that it is not yet incurable, and that a course of wise and salutary measures may yet place us beyond the reach of danger.

In contributing to this most desirable object, we trust we shall see your excellency magnanimously "disregarding all political considerations," and, by calling to your aid in the administration of the government whatever may be found, talents, integrity and fidelity to the constitution, thus rallying all who are worthy to be united in the great work of political reformation.

At a period not less alarming than the present, when calamities from abroad were secretly impelling us to take a part in their contentions, when infringements of our neutral rights were not less frequent nor outrageous than at the present time, the administration of Washington preserved our neutrality and rescued us from the vortex which threatened to overwhelm our national independence. While, therefore, his precepts and his example are continued to us for our future guidance and direction, our safety can only be endangered by the perverseness of our rulers, or the blind and senseless infatuation of the people. His name is written as the rainbow in the cloud, to remind us that the troubled waters have subsided at his command, and as a token that an imitation of his virtue, and a reverence for his example, will, at all times, found the fury of the surrounding tempest, and assuage the billows of internal faction.

But if "domestic prejudices and animosities" are fostered by the "invisible hand of foreign influence;" if our national dignity shall be forgotten, in a "deep-rooted jealousy of one nation, or an excessive partiality for another: [if we are dazzled by the splendid achievement of the proud oppressors of nations, and lose sight of that boundless and inordinate ambition, which is their most powerful, if not their only motive of action; if we are regardless of their unparalelled aggressions, and indifferent to the atrocities by which their objects are promoted—by such a course we shall become auxiliary to their schemes of usurped dominion, and eventually contribute to the subjugation and slavery of our own country. Shall we not, then, be prompted by the principles of self-preservation, to watch the motions, that we may shun the influence of those overgrown powers, who, forgetful of their true "dignity and honor," have "immortalized their fame, not by recording it on the brilliant pages of illustrious philanthropists, on the durable annals of the great, the God-like benefactors of man—but on the sorrowful tombs of slaughtered millions—on the desolate ruins of mournful principalities, kingdoms and empires!"]

We accord with your excellency in the opinion, that the present condition of Europe, indicates an indefinite continuance of a war, which has become necessary to the existence of one of the belligerents, and probably, to the future safety of the whole civilized world.

During this unprecedented struggle, it is the first duty of the government to preserve an honest and impartial neutrality, so far as it can be maintained, without hazarding our national safety and independence. But as past events afford us too much reason to apprehend that such a position cannot be long supported against the increasing efforts of the combatants, to force us into a participation of their dangers and distresses, we most cordially unite with your excellency in the opinion, that sound policy and even ordinary discretion, demand of our government vigorous and active preparations for a state of open hostilities with one of the belligerent powers—such a course is the more obviously necessary, inasmuch, as we have been admonished by most afflictive experience, that, in this conflict of extermination, even peace is but a state of warfare in disguise; and that the rights of neutrality (occasionally violated by both the contending parties) are at length avowedly subjected to the arbitrary will of a government, which acknowledges no other rule of action, than that every other nation shall be subservient to the conquest of its enemies, and the unlimited extension of its power.

We most cheerfully concur in the sentiment of your excellency, that "husbandry and commerce are the two great pillars of the commonwealth," and that not a right of either ought to be invaded, or impaired, while she, in subordination to the general government, has an arm to protect them.—The distresses we have endured from the suspension of the one, and consequent depression of the other, admonish us, that, as we cannot long exist without the "aid of these "natural allies," even war, with all its calamities, is to be preferred to a permanent abandonment of either.

The embarrassments which have resulted from the unprotected state of our commerce, during the present war in Europe, and which, at different periods, have driven us to the very verge of open hostilities with both the belligerents cannot, we believe, have left a "solitary doubt," in the mind of any sincere and intelligent friend of his country, that a system of maritime defence will be our only efficient security against the intermeddling and aggressions of surrounding nations.

The Senate are deeply impressed with the importance of rendering every [illegible] of the protection of military discipline. Our pacific policy having precluded a system of national defence, the existing state of things imperiously demands, at the present moment, more than ordinary attention to the organization, equipment, and discipline of the militia, and your excellency may rest assured of our zealous co-operation in any practicable measures which may be suggested for that purpose.

The alacrity with which the legislature of Massachusetts have, at all times, contributed to the advancement of "religion, literature, morality, and the social virtues," will, we trust, be deemed a sufficient pledge to your excellency, that during the present year, the Senate will not be unmindful of these primary duties, and that their attention will be unremittingly directed to these most important and essential interests of the commonwealth.

As our collective and individual happiness rests, almost exclusively on the support of religious and literary institutions, the Senate will be prompted, at all times, by a sense of personal as well as official duty, to regard them as the objects of their first and most solemn consideration.

So far as "industry and economy," applied to the extension of useful manufactures require the stimulus of legislative patronage, we shall, at all times, be ready to concur, with the other branches of the government, in appropriate measures for their encouragement and reward.

Every enterprize which may tend to diminish our dependence upon foreign nations, is a laudable effort of patriotism, and in the present condition of the world, has a peculiar claim to the fostering aid of that government, which regards the independence of the people, as the last boon they will be willing to surrender.

The senate duly appreciate "the numerous blessings, political, civil and religious," which, amid so many perils and disasters, have yet been continued to us by a kind and indulgent Providence. In a firm but humble reliance on the protection of Heaven, they beg leave to repeat their assurances of a cordial support in every exertion to advance the best interests of their constituents, and to offer their fervent prayers, that your excellency's administration may conduce to your individual honor and happiness, and to the dignity, order and tranquility of the commonwealth.

NOTE.

[The following paragraph which appeared in the original report of this answer, was struck out by the senate, and the words inclosed in brackets, in the ninth paragraph, substituted in lieu of it.]

If we are dazzled by the splendid atchievements of the mighty conquerer, and lose sight of that boundless and inordinate ambition, which is his avowed and almost only motive of action; if we are regardless of his unparallelled accumulation, and indifferent to the atrocities by which his conquests are extended, by such a course we shall become auxiliary to his scheme of universal domination, and eventually contribute to the subjugation and slavery of our country. Shall we not, then, be prompted, by the spirit of self-preservation, to watch the revolutions, that we may shun the orbit of this baleful comet, which now sweeps over the face of the earth, and while it dazzles by its splendor, carries death and ruin and desolation in its train.

NEW-YORK, June 16.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT,

Havanna, May 25th, 1810.

"Although it was distinctly and clearly understood and believed by all parties, and many letters were written to that effect to the United States, England, and the windward islands, that the order of May, 1809, reducing the duties on imports and exports, and allowing this as a port of deposit, was again declared to be in force from and after the 21st inst: yet it has, in consequence of the receipt of dispatches by the April packet from Cadiz, been again suspended until further orders from the Regency. You will therefore serve those who may be about to make shipments to this port, from a belief that the duties have been reduced, as well as those who have given notice relative thereto, by informing the public that the old duty of 34 per cent. on imports, and 12 per cent. still remain in force, and will be exacted.

"Enclosed you have a royal order, which you will also be pleased to make public, for the general benefit of merchants trading to the Spanish ports."

Extract of a letter from another correspondent at Havanna, dated May 21.

"A new general of marine (admiral D. [illegible] have been published [illegible] the aundry instructions [illegible] the government of Spain—that no American vessels will be admitted into the ports of the peninsula, South America, or any of the king's possessions, unless provided with consular certificates; nor will hereafter any person be permitted to land who is not provided with a proper passport from the Spanish minister or consuls residing at the port from which the vessel may sail."

PHILADELPHIA, June 18.

A letter from the supercargo of the Olympus, Talbot, to his owner, dated Tonningen, April 24, says, that he was to undergo his last examination that day and expected to be permitted to enter; that as soon as he landed his goods he should change the property, as he did not consider American property perfectly secure; that markets were bad, exchange had been very low, but was getting better, in favor of the remitter. Russia goods had risen 50 per cent. in consequence of the number of vessels which had gone up the Baltic.

Extract of a letter from a gentleman in N. Orleans, to his friend in Rustchille, Ken. dated April 23, 1810.

"There are nine French privateers taken by the U. S. gun-boats now lying here, and in the river below, all for trial—many of the French here are suspected of being concerned in fitting them out—they sailed from this under American colors.

The province of West Florida will in less than two months, throw themselves under the protection of the U. S. if it is consistent for them to be received; if not, under the government of Mexico. Consultations are daily holding with the governor at Baton Rouge; none of the inhabitants are now afraid to approach him with propositions. They all equally despise Bonaparte, since they find he has possession of Spain."

5000 Acres of Land for Sale.

THE subscriber offers for sale a number of very valuable Tracts of Land in that part of the state of Georgia called the "NEW PURCHASE."

He can most confidently affirm that his title is clear and indisputable—this he wishes to impress in order to remove any prejudice that may exist in the minds of those disposed to purchase Georgia Lands. The tracts now for sale are situated between the Oconee and Ocmulgee rivers, and are within the last purchase made of the Indians by the state of Georgia. The legislature of Georgia to encourage the population of the district as well as to benefit the inhabitants of the state, had the purchase surveyed and divided into lots or squares of 02 and half acres each, and granted a lotter restricting the sale of tickets to the citizens of Georgia at a low price, the prizes to consist of lots within the purchase—a number of these lots the subscriber now offers for sale, some are in the vicinity of the city of Milledgerille, the permanent seat of the state government, its present white population exceeds 1500 souls—it is situated upon the verge of the Oconee, which is navigable for boats that carry from fifteen to twenty tons, to Darien, upon the Atlantic—indeed the whole purchase is become very populous, & those disposed to engage in southern agriculture, or to purchase upon speculation, cannot do better than to avail themselves of this opportunity to obtain good lands now for sale. Several of the tracts are contiguous to each other and some in the neighborhood of flourishing county towns; some unite many desirable advantages. The country generally is well supplied with branches, creek streams, rivers, and springs that constantly flow. Many of the tracts now advertised have the advantage of fine timber and mill seats.

Those inclined to become purchasers may know the terms by applying to the subscriber living at Alexandria, in the district of Columbia.

Mr. S——,

There has been a nuisance in our town, for some months past.

It is under the immediate eye of a Magistrate——where an active Superintendant of Police might chance to dislocate a vertebre if he was aware of it——and, (what is more particular too,) at the Corner of a Municipal Officer——

However, I shan't mention it.

The Secret Despatch.—The important document, published in our last, from the Boston Gazette, has perplexed Duane. He is vexed to find such a letter before the people, and would fain pronounce it a forgery; but then consents to acknowledge that it is really from General Armstrong; for, says the Aurora, "it is in accord with dates and facts in our knowledge." This, the reader will recollect, is stated of a letter from General Armstrong to Mr. Madison, dated "Paris, Feb. 22, 1808;" in which letter more than two years ago, our minister informed his government that Bonaparte would permit his decrees to "suffer no change," and declared that "the Americans should be compelled to take the positive character either of enemies or allies." Duane, and such miscreants as Duane, may be permitted to rave at the disclosure of the IMPORTANT FACT, that this determination of Bonaparte was faithfully forwarded to government two years ago—but they will never prevail on a deceived people to believe that it was either kind, patriotic or politic, to keep back such information. The Editor of the Aurora is sufficiently impudent to declare that such "facts" were "in his knowledge," secreted from the people, when he, affecting to conduct a free press, would hot out with it! "The labourer is worthy of his hire."

[Balt. Fed. Gaz.

"Magna est veritas, et prevalebit."
Truth is great and it will prevail.

The politicians of the Washington School—notwithstanding the unmanly subterfuges of democracy, promulgated by the National Intelligencer, and echoed by all the whippers-in of the party from Georgia to Maine, "that France, our great and good friend, would do justice, that she was fighting for the liberty of the seas, and all such trumpery) have, undismayed by the reproaches of their opponents, and unbending in their integrity to the best interests of our country, boldly affirmed in the face of the nation, in the hall of the republic, that the Emperor of enslaved Europe awaited only a favorable moment, to place his royal foot upon us, and thus prove to a deluded cabinet that his professions of respect for our last remaining republic, [if indeed he ever condescended so much as to make professions] were empty nothings. Facts [thanks to the author of our wrongs] facts prove the predictions to be true. Gen. Armstrong's note to the French Duke of Cadore, of March 10, 1810, must be a bitter pill for the apologists of Gallic outrage.

Let those monarchical jacobins read with patience the communication alluded to—let them remember that it is written by a minister who long ago assured his government what they must expect from the maddening tyrant. Let them reflect also, that notwithstanding those assurances, scarcely a fortnight passed over, without "an extract from Gen. Armstrong's letter to the Secretary of State informs, that our relations with France begin to assume a more favorable aspect," being distributed from the capital through the medium of the ministerial paper, to insult truth and multiply aggression.

The people will now have an opportunity to judge for themselves, from the official documents of their own dear servants. Popular as may have been the delusion that France seeks the restoration of justice and right, and has kindly undertaken the mighty task, from the disinterested love she bears to the rational creation—short and pithy as the prayer may be, "Long live the Emperor," it is believed that our welkin will not much longer ring with praises to the MIGHTY MASTER.

BOSTON, June 13.

Arrived, ship American Hero, Coffin, Teneriffe. When captain C. left Teneriffe, 7 American vessels had been condemned, and it was believed if Gen. Armstrong left Paris, the whole would be confiscated.

NEW-YORK, June 12.

A letter from Naples of the 23d March, to a gentleman of this city, (which letter we have seen) says "—All American property here has been confiscated, including the vessels, and will be sold at public auction in a few days."

At a Meeting of the members of the Board of Health at the Council Chamber in Alexandria, the 19th June, 1810—

No. 1. John Muncaster, east of Fairfax and south of Prince streets.

No. 2. William Paton, west of Fairfax, south of Prince, and east of St. Asaph streets.

No. 3. John Loyd, west of St. Asaph & south of Prince streets.

No. 4. Joseph Riddle, east of Fairfax between King and Prince streets.

No. 5. Thomas Janney, west of Fairfax and east of Columbus between King and Prince streets.

No. 6. William S. Moore, west of Columbus between King and Prince streets.

No. 9. Samuel Harper, west of Columbus and north of King streets.

And further that the individual members retain the right of a general superintendance and removal of nuisances from any part of the town.

It appearing to the Board that great vigilance will be required as usual, during the warm season, to preserve the health of the town—It is therefore ORDERED, That the Superintendant of Police do pay particular attention to the state of the gutters, back yards, allies and privies, and that he cause the gutters to be scraped and cleared twice in each week, by working of the pumps on Wednesdays and Saturdays, and that he also procure a sufficient quantity of quick lime, and cause the same to be sent round the town on the aforesaid days, for the use of the inhabitants, who are to pay for the same at cost, and that it be his particular duty to see that the same be used in all privies requiring it, and over any stagnant places in the gutters immediately after being scraped, and that he report the expence thereof to this Board once in two weeks.

GENUINE MEDICINES.

LATE LEE, BERNARD LEE, ESQ. OF N. YORK.

As prepared from the original receipt in possession of the subscriber, his widow, by whom they are prepared and without whose signature none are genuine.

Obstinate Coughs, Colds, Asthmas, &c.

Are immediately relieved and speedily cured by the use of

HAMILTON'S ELIXER FOR COUGHS.

DEAR bought experience has taught thousands that oily and heated medicines, joined with strong opiates or sleepy drugs, repeated doses of which flatter and deceive the patient for the present, by procuring momentary ease; experience, I say, has taught thousands, that the common opiates and balsamics, as they are called, finally aggravate every disorder of the breast and lungs, in their most distressing symptoms: that they cool the stomach and impair the digestion inflame the whole system, increase the difficulty of breathing and excite fever. But the qualities of this valuable discovery are convinced by perfectly opposite effects. A single trial will prove, that it restores the determination of the fluids to the surface of the body, and brings on the common healthful perspiration—that it dislodges and evacuates the tough viscid phlegm or mucus, strengthens the weakened vessels of the lungs, sheathes the acrimonious humor which irritates them, and finally discharges it. Thus striking at the root of the disorder, the symptoms are of course effectually and permanently conque . . the reverse of common medicines, which weaken the constitution and give strength to the disorder for the sake of moderating for the present some of its painful effects.

To parents who have children afflicted with the whooping cough, this discovery is of the first magnitude, as it affords immediate relief, checks the progress, and in a short time entirely removes the most cruel disorder to which children are liable. The elixir is so perfectly agreeable, and the dose so small that no difficulty arises in taking it.

Selected Recommendations.

Being desirous to make public for the good of others, the excellent quality of Hamilton's elixir, prepared by the late Mr. Lee, I have sent you the following account of the benefit I have received from i ; which I hope will induce others to give it a trial. In consequence of a bruise on the breast received from a fall, my health grew bad, my breathing became very difficult, and frequently I have had suddenly to rise up in my bed with all the horrors of immediate suffocation.—Add to these a constant pain in my breast, and a cough, a great loss of strength & flesh, and you may conceive that my symptoms evidently indicated an approaching consumption. The advice of a most eminent physician was resorted to, and afterwards a second was called in, but without giving me any relief. Another physician who knew me and the circumstances of my case, advised me to give Hamilton's Elixir a trial, saying he had used it in his practice and always found it to do much good. A bottle was procured from Mr. Birch's, and I found relief before I had taken half of it. I continued to use it & was soon strong to attend to business. On taking cold, some of my former symptoms return, but are always removed by a dose or two of the Elixir.

George Benner, jun.
no. 11. Budd street, Philadelphia.
Mrs. H. Lee, New York.

Mr. Abijah Henly, Bridge street, Baltimore, was cured by one bottle of Hamilton's Elixir, of a very complicated disorder, occasioned by a very severe cold caught several months ago. He breathed with the greatest difficulty, and was often thrown into weakening sweats when he attempted to walk any distance, and his voice would frequently fail in such a degree that he could only attempt to whisper. He has been upwards of six weeks without a return of his complaints; and desires to give his public testimony in favor of this invaluable medicine.

Itch Cured,

By once using Lee's Sovereign Ointment. The proprietor informs those persons and families who are suffering under this disease, against the infection of which no person is safe, that if this ointment is used at night on going to bed it never fails to perform a cure by the following morning, as thousands who have used it during the last ten years can testify. The peculiar excellencies of this infallible remedy for the itch, above every other, are the certainty of the cure by a single application; the ingredients being so innocent as to be applied with perfect safety to the tenderest infant; and its being not only free from any offensive smell, but equally agreeable with the pleasantest pomatum.

Which the inventor confidently recommends as an invaluable medicine for the speedy relief, and permanent cure of various complaints which result from dissipated pleasures, journies, indiscretions, residence in climates unfavorable to the constitution, the immoderate use of tea, frequent intoxication, or any destructive intemperance, the small pox, the small pox, full or frequent use of mercury, the disorders peculiar to females at a certain period of life, bad layings in, &c.

HAMILTON'S
CELEBRATED WORM DESTROYING LOZENGES.

Among the symptoms attending Worms are, disagreeable breath, especially in the morning—bad and corrupt gums—itching in the nose, and about the seat—convulsions, epileptic fits, and sometimes a privation of speech—irregular appetite; sometimes loathing food and sometimes voracious—purging with slimy and fœtid stools—vomiting—large and hard belly—pains and sickness at the stomach—pains in the head and thighs, with lowness of spirits—slow fever, with small and irregular pulse—a dry cough—excessive thirst—sometimes pale and unhealthy countenance, and sometimes the face blowted and rushed.

Persons afflicted with any of the above symptoms, should have immediate recourse to Hamilton's Worm Destroying Lozenges which have been constantly attended with success in all complaints similar to those above described.

Those who are interested in the commerce and agriculture of the country adjacent to the Potomac and Shenandoah rivers, have additional inducements to give their support, as the money to be raised by the lottery is for their immediate benefit and convenience. It is also hoped that the patriotic and public spirited will be disposed to countenance and encourage a measure which has for its object the facilitating a ready and convenient communication between the western country and the Atlantic, tending to connect the interests of the eastern and western states, and to perpetuate their union.
